FOREWORD

The statistical data in this report came primarily from information systems maintained by the Data Processing Division within the Bureau of Administrative Services. Information on Court Dispositions came from the various felony courts in Michigan.

Additional information on the production and content of this publication can be obtained by contacting the Public Information Office, Michigan Department of Corrections, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The editor gratefully acknowledges the contributions of the following persons in the preparation of the 1986 statistical presentation:

Stephen Malatinsky, Graphic Artist, who designed the report.

Steven Paddock and Roger McAllister, Data Processing Division, who coordinated information systems.

Michael C. Cassidy, a prisoner at the State Prison of Southern Michigan, did the graphic layout and set the type for the publication.

The State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson Print Shop, which oversaw production of the book.

Mary Volakakis, Program Bureau, who designed some charts and prepared them for production.

1986 IN REVIEW

During 1986 the Michigan Department of Corrections continued its push toward expansion of the prison system. About 1,500 beds were added during the year, but crowding continued. By the end of 1986, prison population reached 18,746 and the prison capacity had climbed to 16,488. The Scott Regional Correctional Facility took its first prisoners on December 1, 1986. It was the first regional prison which began construction in the State of Michigan. Earlier, in November of 1986, the first 384 cells at the Cotton Regional Correctional Facility near Jackson opened. That prison was run in conjunction with the Jackson Temporary Facility adjacent. The Ionia Temporary Facility expanded its prison by 160 beds and camps Brighton and Lehman also were increased by a total of 400 beds.

New prisons were planned for Standish, Carson City, the Upper Peninsula and Oakland County. It was announced during 1986 that Kinross would get a third prison and its first regional prison. Many new prison wardens were appointed during 1986 to meet the needs of the new prisons both opening and planned. The new wardens appointed in 1986:

John J. Makowski who had been deputy warden at the Huron Valley Men's Facility went to the Ionia Temporary Facility to replace JoAnn Bach who was named warden of the Ionia Maximum Correctional Facility;

Pamela K. Withrow left her post as warden at Michigan Dunes and went to the Michigan Reformatory. Succeeding her was Martin Makel;

John Jabe who had been warden at the Michigan Reformatory in Ionia was selected to head up the Scott Regional Correctional Facility;

Richard E. Johnson who was training director for the department was selected as warden of the Carson City Regional Prison;

Jospeh A. Abramajtys, Jr., who had been in private practice and was formerly a deputy warden at the Muskegon Correctional Facility, was named the warden of the Muskegon Temporary Facility. Both the Muskegon and the Carson City Regional Temporary Facilities were to start construction in 1987.

In addition, the department's new hospital, the Duane L. Waters Hospital at the State Prison of Southern Michigan, was opened and dedicated in September, 1986. It was believed to be the first hospital designed and built solely as a prison hospital in the United States. J. K. Harkness, M. D., former director of the Office of Health Care with the department was the featured speaker.

One of the major thrusts within the department during 1986 was public safety. Two major series in the Detroit Free Press in 1985 and 1986 sparked legislative interest in changing policy and procedures within the department. In addition, the department on its own volition began in 1985 a pilot program to cut escapes from halfway houses and the results became known in 1986. The department found that halfway house escapes were cut by 30 per cent during the six-month pilot project and the time at large for escapes was reduced by 70 per cent. Because the project seemed to be so successful, funding was sought to expand it to the entire state.

Fears of walkaways from minimum security camps prompted the legislature to require the department to fence all its camps and that project began in 1986 so that by the end of the year nearly all camps had been fenced at a cost of about 2.2 million. Other changes prompted by incidents and by the legislature ended the gate pass system throughout the state which allowed certain offenders to work outside the perimeter of some institutions. The escape of three sex offenders from the gate pass program at the Michigan Training Unit prompted the change in policy.

The legislature passed a law which forced the department to remove sex offenders from farms at Jackson Prison and the dormitory at the Michigan Reformatory and to remove prisoners from the farms and the dorm at the Reformatory who were there on waivers. As a result of this state law, waiver cases were moved into the camps and sex offenders into medium security. During 1986 one senator introduced legislation to abolish the State Corrections Commission.

Also during the year, allegations by the Lansing State Journal of widespread and major drug smuggling within the state prison system involving administrative and line-level staff were denied by the Department of Corrections. Subsequently, an investigation of these allegations was begun by the State Police. It was the department's belief that while drug smuggling did occur to some extent, that very few staff were involved. Results of the investigation by the end of 1986 seemed to bear that out.

The department suffered its first hostage takings during 1986. They both occured at the Huron Valley Men's Facility. The first began on January 7 and involved a female corrections officer named Colleen Nickerson and a prisoner named John Thomas. Ms. Nickerson was held hostage but not harmed by the inmate for ten hours before being rescued by State Police. The second incident occured on January 16 and lasted for thirty hours. It involved two prisoners who took hostage a kitchen supervisor, a corrections officer and an inmate. Up until these incidents the department had been spared the trauma of hostage taking although many other states had suffered this situation in the past.

On a more upbeat note, the Muskegon Correctional Facility earned reaccreditation from the National Commission on Accreditation and Michigan State Industries, which was steadily expanding and modernizing its operation, took over operation of the farms at the State Prison of Southern Michigan to improve economies there.

COURT DISPOSITIONS

The A tables, charts and graphs illustrate data supplied to the department by the Circuit Courts in Michigan and the Detroit Recorder's Court. They show dispositions for all felony convictions handled by the Courts in 1986.

Table A1 counts the number of people who received court sentences during the year. In 1986, a total of 24, 964 people were sentenced for felony crimes. Of those, 8,329 came to prison, about 700 more than in 1985. Of all persons sentenced for felonies in 1986, 54.2% were placed in probation, compared with 54.8% in 1985.

The A1 table categorizes each person according to the most severe sentences s/he received even though a person may have been sentenced for several felony crimes. An individual is counted more than once if s/he received court sentences on separate occasions three months or more apart.

Pie charts A1a through A1e illustrate the composition of these sentenced offenders. The definitions of the groups accompany the charts. More details on these groups can be obtained from the Office of Public Information. Group A constitutes 31.3% of the 24,964 persons convicted of felonies in 1986. Group A people have no prior jail term, juvenile probations only or one jail term.

Group B constitutes 11.4% and is composed of people with a juvenile record, multiple jail terms or one term of adult probation.

Group C constitutes 36.4% of the total and is made up of persons with multiple probation terms, probation violators or prior prison terms.

Group D, which constitutes 20.7%, is composed of institutional residents, escapees, and parole violators with new sentences.

A2 counts all court dispositions (cases) as opposed to people. By looking at this chart you can tell how many cases of a certain crime got prison, probation or jail. One person may have received several sentences and some sentences involved several dispositions such as probation and jail.

A3 graph illustrates trends in court dispositions between 1980 and 1986. Prison has increased as a disposition while probation has decreased as a disposition.

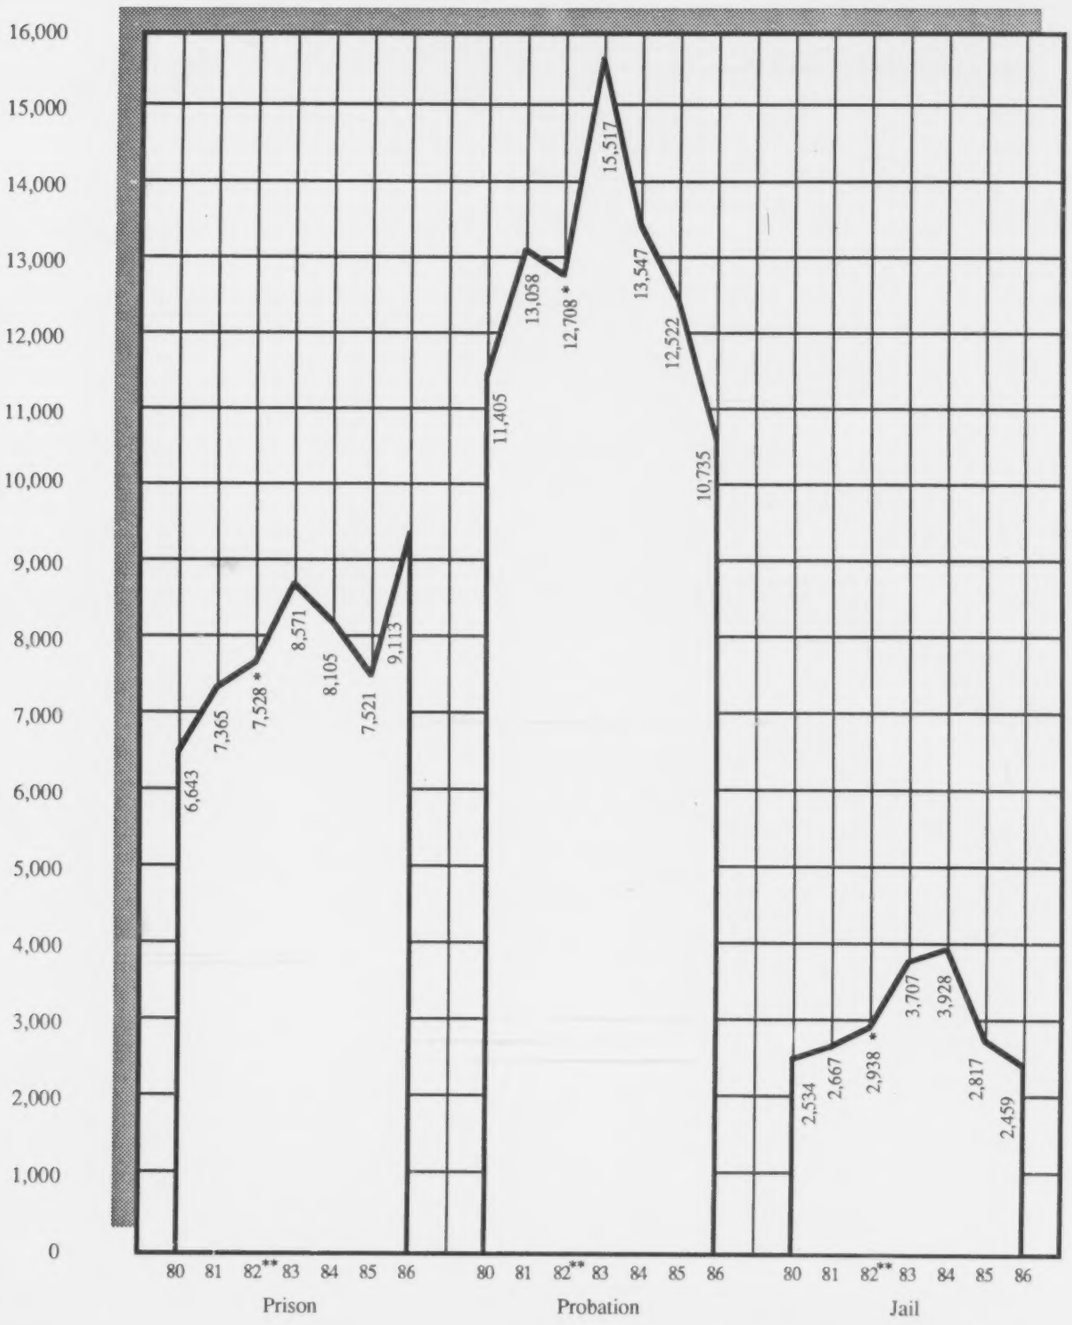
A3 Court Dispositions: 6 Year Comparison



NOTE: Each conviction is counted; some persons will have multiple convictions

* Includes HYTA Convictions

PRISON COMMITMENTS

The B tables represent people to the fullest extent possible. They count the number of prison commitments for the year, reporting the longest sentences from each commitment. A person may, however, be committed more than once in a year with multiple sentences per commitment. In such cases that person would be counted each time s/he was committed. In 1986, there were commitments totaling 7,270 for non-attempts and 909 for attempts. In addition to listing the number of commitments by crime, the charts give the minimum sentences for each crime. Those minimum sentences falling between the various categories are grouped with the higher number. The B2 tables contain men and women commitments but B3 lists only female commitments. The charts also contain an average minimum sentence for the various crimes.

The B1 table "Prison Commitments through December 31, 1986, Compared with Reported Crime in 1985" compares the annual reported index crimes (in hundreds of thousands) with the annual prison commitments.

Other charts cover commitments by age, race, sex and crime types. The last chart illustrates the percentage of crimes (assaultive) against people as percent of total commitments.

PRISONS AND PRISONERS

The following tables and charts present information on the state's prisons and prisoners. A map shows the location of all prisons and camps as of December 31, 1986. Another section describes each institution.

The C tables count the controlling sentences for persons who were on count at an institution or in the halfway house program the last day of 1986. Temporary releases, furloughs, out-to-court and admissions to the Department of Mental Health are not counted nor are persons who are on a facility count who did not have any active sentence record on the Department's Computer information system.

The C1 chart contains sentences for both men and women but C2 contains only women. Besides listing the number of persons serving sentences for the various crimes, the charts contain minimum sentences and averages. Sentences falling between the various categories are grouped into the higher categories. Attempted offenses are given directly below the named offense and are not included in the non-attempt category.

One chart lists the various treatment activities available in Michigan prisons and minimum security camps. Another lists critical incidents.

Charts also in this section show the activities of Michigan State Industries. A chart showing the disposition of major misconducts also can be found in this section.

Charts illustrating activities of the Bureau of Health Care Services are not included in the report because a separate statistical document is available from that bureau.

NOTE: Beginning in 1984, all critical incidents were coded using the narrative describing the incident on the critical incident form. The coding structure and the method of counting was designed to continue past practice until a review of the critical incident process is completed. An incident can involve multiple events, but only the most serious event during an incident is counted, i.e., more than one prisoner can escape during a reported escape incident. Reported suicide attempts, assaults, and use of force incidents usually involve other types of events which are not counted. Departmental directive PD-DWA-12.01 was used to prioritize the events and to define what was counted in each category. Approximately 18% (n = 1,170) of the 1986 incidents were multiple incidents. The procedural changes have increased the accuracy of the coding of critical incidents. Therefore, comparisons of changes in the number of specific types of events with years prior to 1984 are not justified, because the change in part will be the result of the increased accuracy in the coding of the critical incidents.

PAROLE

The D charts show parole activity in 1986. Table D1 counts the last continuance or parole action taken on a person during the year. A person may have had several actions during the year. In 1986, 59% of all first offenders were paroled on their minimums.

The Total Dispositions per category shows that 3,227 first offenders were considered for parole in 1986. Of those, 1,425 or 59% were paroled on their minimum; 41% or 878 were paroled after their minimums.

Of the 1,213 parole violators with new sentences considered, 576 or 47% were paroled. Of those considered, 32% or 182 were paroled on their minimums.

A total of 2,266 repeat offenders were considered by the Board in 1986. A total of 38% or 452 were paroled on their minimums.

A total of 4,340 persons from all categories were paroled in 1986; a total of 3,754 were continued.

The D2 chart shows the results of four-year follow-ups of persons paroled in 1982. The offense groups shown on the left in D2 are those crimes from which the prisoner was paroled.

The D2a chart shows the crimes for which parolees were returned and compares them with the crime from which the person was paroled.

The table counts the original crime—see column labled "ORIG TOTL"—and contains subtotal counts for the group category of these crimes.

The table counts the crimes committed while on parole (P.V.N.S.).

To use the chart, find the crime title in the vertical column on the left. Following the title will be an alpha character in parentheses. For example, homicide has the alpha character (A). The number beside this character (17) shows the number of people paroled in 1982 from a homicide and who were later returned for a new crime. Next, locate the character (A) across the top of the chart. (A) represents the crime of homicide and shows how many of the 17 persons were returned to prison for the crime of homicide. Looking below (A), you can see that one person of the 17 came back with a crime of homicide. By moving to the next vertical column (B) you can see how many people paroled from homicide (A) were returned with a sentence of rape (B). In this case there were none.

FIELD SERVICES

This section describes, through use of statistics, the activities of the Bureau of Field Services.

This bureau supervises all felons on probation, parole or living in the community in a halfway house or resident home.

The supervision is divided into three regions which are shown on the map in this section.

The central office prepares budgets, sets policies and handles matters that cannot be taken care of locally such as the Interstate Compact and communications concerning absconders picked up in other states.

Parole violations which result in return to prison are shown in this section.

Personnel and funds distribution illustrate the total staff in field supervision, community corrections centers and central office-administration. It also describes, through a pie chart, the dollars spent during the 1985-86 fiscal year on these same bureau sections. The work unit distribution charts show how the work time of the employees of this bureau is divided into supervision and investigation.

Supervision is further divided into type and shows the probation supervision accounts 74.3 percent of all supervision acitivities.

Investigation accounts for 31.4 percent of the work units. Of all investigations, those done for the pre-sentence reports clearly predominate.

The bureau measures workloads by assigning unit values to the various tasks. A completed pre-sentence invesitgation equals five units and each client supervised ranges from 2 units to .1 unit.

This section also contains charts (E7, E8, E9 and E10) illustrating the activities of the Community Alternatives Program.

COMMUNITY ALTERNATIVES PROGRAMS

The department through its office of Community Alternative Programs (CAP) awards grants to communities to address local correctional problems. The department recognizes that communities have unique local problems and that the community can best address those issues. Of the approximately 59,000 adult felony offenders under the jurisdiction of the department about 70% or 41,000 are in the community and most of those in prison will someday return to the community. The CAP office funds three program areas: probation residential centers, service provider programs and grants to local community corrections advisory boards.

Probation residential centers provide a secure setting, less restrictive than jail, where offenders live in a structured environment. There they receive counseling, perform community service work, complete educational requirements, obtain employment and learn how to manage their life and its responsibilities.

Service provider programs present a wide range of services that asset the offender, probationers, parolees and prisoners in the community. These services range from employability skills training, suostance abuse counseling, actual job training, emergency services (food, shelter, clothing), mental health treatment and educational programs.

Grants are made to counties with a community corrections advisory board. These grants are then used to enhance adult felony probation services. Some typical grant programs are: community service work projects, victim restitution programs, specialized mental health programs, job training, drug detection and substance abuse counseling.

Supervision is the process in which parole or probation agents work with clients while under the jurisdiction of the Department of Corrections (parole) or the jurisdiction of the Courts (probation, Holmes Youthful Trainee, and delayed sentences). The case numbers in the chart represent the average number of cases under supervision during the year.

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

During FY 1985-86, community programs experienced steady growth after a year of no growth. The average daily count went up over 200, representing an increase of almost 14%. At the same time, per diem costs dropped 49¢. The institutional per diem cost of $54.19 is more than double that of community programs. Therefore, the halfway house program represents a savings to the public of $19.6 million for this fiscal year alone.

F2 shows the various program termination categories and their respective percentages. Disciplinary returns increased significantly while escapes dropped six percentage points.

F3 displays the various distribution categories of prisoner earnings. During the fiscal year, prisoners paid over $1.6 million toward their own support in the community while contributing over $900,000 in income taxes.

F4 is a ten-year graph of prisoner gross earnings which clearly reflects the early 1980's recession as well as the strong recovery of the last two years.

F5 provides a ten-year comparison of successful and unsuccessful termination percentages. Interestingly, while escapes, disciplinary returns and paroles/discharges have tended to fluctuate considerably, new felony charges have remained relatively constant for the last ten years.

F6 shows the results of the Absconder Recovery Unit's efforts to capture escapees and deter potential escapes in three major urban areas of the state. The chart compares the six-month demonstration period with the preceeding six months and nine months immediately following it. The combined bar graph shows a substantial drop in percentage points of the escape rate during and following the demonstration period.

PERSONNEL

The H charts illustrate information about department employees. H1 shows the total as of December 1986. H1a is corrections officers for each institution and field services. In H1b the number of female corrections officers increased from 123 in 1977 to 1,029 at the end of 1986.

New hires are shown in H2. A total of 2,580 persons were hired in 1986, mostly corrections officers.

The H3 and H3a charts show the department's progress in reaching its affirmative action goals in 1986.

H4 shows the number of professionals and administrative personnel in the department and H5 and H6 illustrate the increase in total female employees and minorities over the years.

Trainings statistics are shown in H7.

YEAR IN REVIEW - 1987

The death of two corrections officers at the State Prison of Southern Michigan made 1987 a tragic year for the Department. Closely following the death of Josephine McCallum in March of 1987, a prisoner by the name of Oscar Rowels was killed during a scuffle with corrections officers who were attempting to subdue him. It was not long after that three prisoners escaped from the Northside Complex of the State Prison of Southern Michigan by taking advantage of construction and security weakness in the facility. In December of 1987, Officer Jack Budd was stabbed to death in the segregation unit.

These events, all at the same prison, caused the Department and legislators to take a very careful look at the operation of the facility. An internal investigation of the events leading up to the McCallum death concluded that the institution was suffering many serious management problems including widespread sexual harassment of female corrections officers. Difficulties with key control and prisoner movement were also cited. And it was discovered that post orders and procedures were out of date or non-existent.

The Director's Office moved to remedy these problems by assigning employees from several other institutions to work with Jackson staff in rewriting post orders and procedures to bring them up to date. In addition, the job of deputy warden inside the Central Complex was divided to reduce the span of control. Sexual harassment coordinators were appointed for each shift at the prison and a sexual harassment coordinator was assigned in the Central Office. McCallum's death occurred shortly before Dale Foltz retired as warden of the Jackson prison. His successor, John Jabe, took on the task of trying to solve decades-old management problems at the vast prison.

While the difficulties at the Jackson prison dominated news accounts of the Department during 1987, a number of other occurrences of a more positive nature were happening elsewhere. Three new prisons opened: Temporaries in Muskegon and Carson City and a regional prison in Lapeer. Both temporary facilities will be replaced eventually by regional facilities on adjacent sites.

The Bureau of Correctional Facilities (BCF) was reorganized to accommodate the growing number of new prisons. Deputy Director in charge of BCF, Dan Bolden, worked with Warden Jabe of the State Prison of Southern Michigan and divided the work of the other prisons among four Assistant Deputies -- JoAnn Bach, John Staten, Rudy Stahlberg and Don Houseworth.

In addition to the new prisons which opened, sites were announced for additional prisons in 1987. Two maximum security facilities and a close security facility are slated for Baraga, Alger and Manistee counties.

A number of personnel changes occurred during 1987. Among the major changes: David L. Trippett was named to be warden at the Thumb Regional Correctional Facility in Lapeer, Elton Scott retired as warden of the Cotton Facility near Jackson and was succeeded by Denise M. Quarles who had been warden at the Riverside Correctional Facility. Succeeding Ms. Quarles was John Prelesnik who had been head of the Reception Center at Jackson. Succeeding him in his post was Jim Pogats who had been a deputy warden at Western Wayne Correctional Facility.

Emmett Baylor who was warden at Western Wayne moved over to the Phoenix Correctional Facility to become warden there. His predecessor, Lloyd May, had gone to the Scott Regional Facility in 1986. Luella Burke was named warden at Western Wayne to succeed Baylor. Raymond G. Toombs was named warden of the Ionia Maximum Facility in Ionia succeeding JoAnn Bach.

During the last part of 1987, David D. Haskell was named warden of the Chippewa Temporary Correctional Facility which, although not yet opened in 1987, was planned as a temporary near the Kinross Correctional Facility.

In addition, the Department's use of electronic monitoring devices to keep tabs on prisoners and probationers living in the community was expanded considerably in 1987 to include many Community Residential Programs inmates on extended furloughs.

In addition, drug testing for halfway house participants was started and by the end of the year it was found that about 20 percent of all those participating in the community program were using drugs including marijuana and alcohol.

Also during 1987, the Department said it wanted to convert the Huron Valley Men's Facility to a women's prison.

Finally, the U.S. District Court held the Department in contempt for being over capacity in the three institutions under jurisdiction of the courts and cited in particular crowding conditions at the Reception Center in Jackson in which prisoners were being housed on the bulk heads and on base at the facility. An order was issued to force the Department out of that type of housing except on a brief short-term basis periodically. Because of court intervention in this matter, crowding did not exist at the three affected institutions which includes the Michigan Reformatory and Marquette Branch Prison. The rest of the system's prisons, however, were crowded by the end of 1987 despite all of the construction and opening of new prisons.

COURT DISPOSITIONS

The A tables, charts and graphs illustrate data supplied to the department by the circuit courts in Michigan and the Detroit Recorder's Court. They show dispositions for all felony convictions handled by the courts in 1987.

Table A1 counts the number of people who received court sentences during the year. The dispositions are broken down into prison, probation ONLY, jail and probation,and jail and/or fine. Previously, we did not break down probation to show those receiving that disposition only.

In 1987, a total of 26,423 people were sentenced for felony crimes. Of those, 9,066 came to prison, about 700 more than in 1986. Of all persons sentenced for felonies in 1987, a total of 34.3% were sent to prison, compared with 33.4 in 1987.

The A1 table categorizes each person according to the most severe sentences s/he received even though a person may have been sentenced for several felony crimes. An individual is counted more than once if s/he received court sentences on separate occasions three months or more apart.

Pie charts A1a through A1e illustrate the composition of these sentenced offenders. The definitions of the groups accompany the charts. More details on these groups can be obtained from the Office of Public Information.

Group A constitutes 30.8% of the 26,423 persons convicted of felonies in 1987. Group A people have no prior jail term, juvenile probations only or one jail term.

Group B constitutes 12% and is composed of people with a juvenile record, multiple jail terms or one term of adult probation.

Group C constitutes 37.6% of the total and is made up of persons with multiple probation terms, probation violators or prior prison terms.

Group D, which constitutes 19.5%, is composed of institutional residents, escapees, and parole violators with new sentences.

A2 counts all court dispositions (cases) as opposed to people. By looking at this chart, you can tell how many cases of a certain crime got prison, probation or jail. One person may have received several sentences and some sentences involved several dispositions such as probation and jail.

A3 chart shows the breakdown for women only.

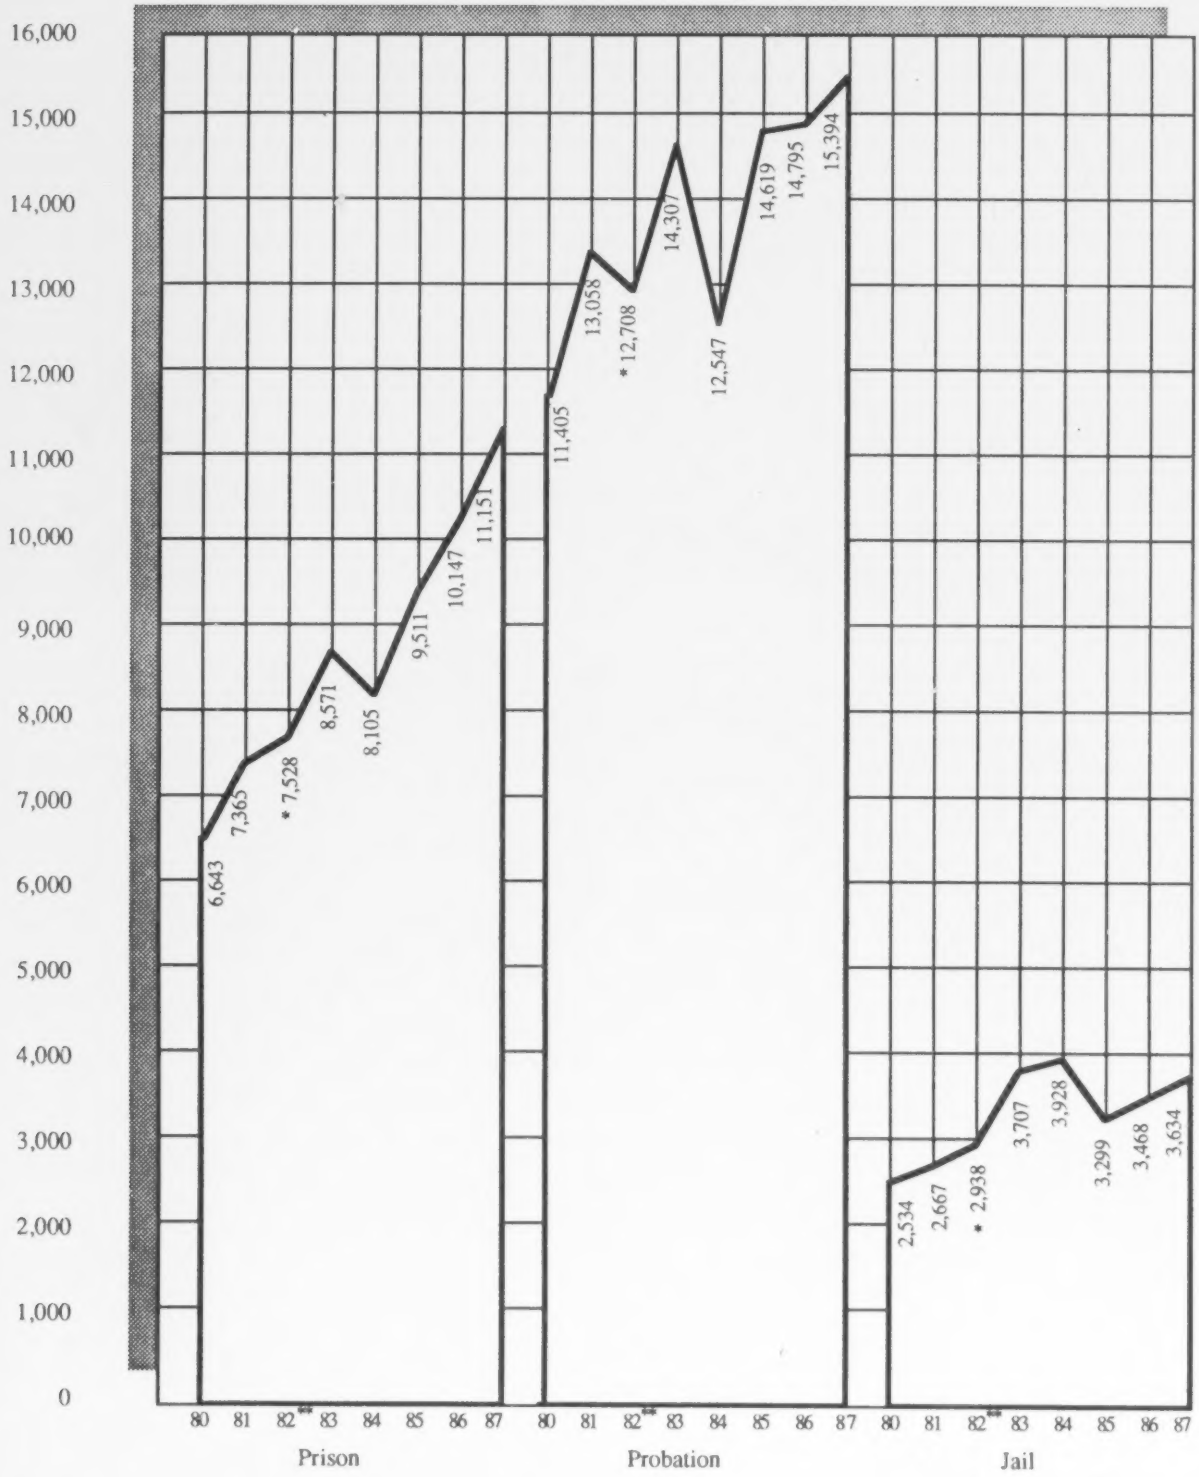
A3 Court Dispositions: 7 Year Comparison



NOTE: Each conviction is counted; some persons will have multiple convictions

* Includes HYTA Convictions

PRISON COMMITMENTS

The B tables represent people to the fullest extent possible. They count the number of prison commitments for the year, reporting the longest sentences from each commitment. A person may, however, be committed more than once in a year with multiple sentences per commitment. In such cases that person would be counted each time s/he was committed. In 1987, there were commitments totaling 8,184 for non-attempts and 893 for attempts. In addition to listing the number of commitments by crime, the charts give the minimum sentences for each crime. Those minimum sentences falling between the various categories are grouped with the higher number.

The B2 tables contain men and women commitments but B3 lists only female commitments. The charts also contain an average minimum sentence for the various crimes.

B1 compares prison commitments with reported crime and B1a compares prison population, the Michigan census and commitments.

PRISONS & PRISONERS

The following tables and charts present information on the state's prisons and prisoners. A map shows the location of all prisons and camps as of Dec. 31, 1987. Another section describes each institution.

The C tables count the controlling sentences for persons who were on count at institution or in the halfway house program the last day of 1987. Temporary releases, furloughs, out-to-court and admissions to the Department of Mental Health are not counted nor are persons who are on facility count who did not have any active sentence record on the department's computer information system.

The C1 chart contains sentences for both men and women but C2 contains only women. Besides listing the number of persons serving sentences for the various crimes, the charts contain minimum sentences and averages. Sentences falling between the various categories are grouped into higher categories. Attempted offenses are given directly below the named offense and are not included in the non-attempt category.

The Facilities Summary chart (C4) shows prisoner movement during the year, including escapes and walkaways and deaths. Because of lack of staff resources, the critical incidents were not compiled this year.

C7 shows institutional programming and activities, and there are a variety of charts illustrating the efforts of Michigan State Industries.

Charts illustrating activities of the Bureau of Health Care Services are not included in the report because a separate statistical document is available from that bureau.

PAROLE ACTIVITY

The D charts show parole activity in 1987. Table D1 counts the last continuance or parole action taken on a person during the year. A person may have had several actions during the year. In 1987, 46.3% of all persons considered for parole during the year earned parole. Of those paroled, 656 were first-time offenders paroled on their minimum sentences or 19% of all persons paroled. Of all decisions made about the total group being considered for parole, the first-time offender paroled on his or her minimum made up 22.7%. More than half the persons considered were not paroled, including 1,359 first-time offenders. Parole in 1987 totaled 3,418 or 46% of the total cases considered.

The D2 chart shows the results of four-year follow-ups of persons paroled in 1983. The offense groups shown on the left in D2 are those crimes from which the prisoner was paroled.

The D2a chart shows the crimes for which parolees were returned and compared them with the crime from which the person was paroled.

The table counts the original crime -- see column labeled "ORIG TOTL" -- and contains subtotal counts for the group category of these crimes.

The table counts the crimes committed while on parole (PVNS).

To use the chart, find the crime title in the vertical column on the left. Following the title will be an alpha character in parenthesis. For example, homicide has the alpha charter (A). The number beside this charter shows the number of people paroled in 1983 from a homicide and who were later returned for a new crime. Next, locate the character (A) across the top of the chart. (A) represents the crime of homicide and shows how many of the persons were returned to prison for the crime of homicide.

BUREAU OF FIELD SERVICES

This section describes the activities of the Bureau of Field Services. This bureau supervises all felons on probation, parole or living in the community in a halfway house or resident home.

The supervision is divided into three regions which are shown on the map in this section.

The central office prepares budgets, sets policies and handles matters that cannot be taken care of locally such as the Interstate Compact and communications concerning absconders picked up in other states.

Parole violations which result in return to prison are shown in this section.

Personnel and funds distribution illustrate the total staff in field supervision, community corrections centers and central office administration. It also describes, through a pie chart, the dollars spent during the 1986-87 fiscal year on these same bureau sections. The work unit distribution charts show how the work time of the employees of this bureau is divided into supervision and investigation.

Supervision is further divided into type and shows the probation supervision accounts for 77.6% of all supervision activities.

Investigations account for 34.5% of the work units. Of all investigations, those down for the pre-sentence reports clearly predominate.

The bureau measures workloads by assigning unit values to the various tasks. A completed presentence investigation equals five units and each client supervised ranges from 2 units to .1 unit.

This section also contains a chart illustrating funding for Community Alternative Program in the 1988 fiscal year.

Supervision is the process in which parole or probation agents work with offenders while under the jurisdiction of the Department of Corrections (parole) or the jurisdiction of the Courts (probation, Holmes Youthful Trainee, and delayed sentences). The case numbers in the chart represent the average number of cases under supervision during the year.

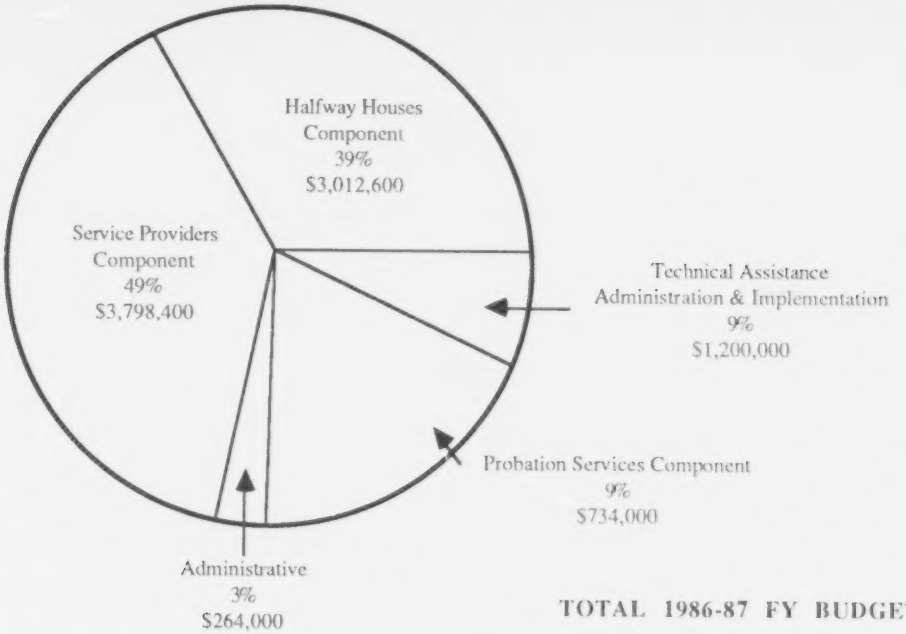
E7 Community Alternative Program Funding 1987-88 Fiscal Year



TOTAL 1986-87 FY BUDGET: $7,809,400

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

During the 1986-87 fiscal year, Community programs continued its growth from the previous year with new highs and lows set in several categories. The average daily count (F1) grew by 171.8 for the year, an increase of 9.5% and 25.6% over two years ago. At year's end, it stood at 1,973.3 the highest since the record peak in 1981.

Both institutional and community programs per diem costs increased over the previous fiscal year. Though, the rate of increase for community programs (8.2%) was less than that of the institutions (9.9%).

Terminations (F2) reflected a drop in the parole/discharge category to below 50% for the first time. This is probably attributable in large part to a stricter reclassification process which resulted in disciplinary returns continuing to rise for the fourth consecutive year, reaching an all-time high of 881 returns. However, the increased returns may have had some impact on the new felony rate (excluding escape) which dropped to 149, the lowest since 1977.

The most dramatic change occurred in the area of prisoner earnings (F3 and F4), which increased 20.4% from $5.19 million to $6.25 million, the highest in the program's history.

Looking at termination rates over the last 10 years (F5), some definitive changes are becoming discernible, particulary in the categories of escape and disciplinary returns. The direction of these changes is expected to continue into the next fiscal year.
